Such work or improvements, and character, consisted of geologic surveys and geochemical surveys of the entire area of the subject claims. The work was performed by Messrs. William P. Walker, Donald A. Hull, and Joseph G. Wargo, geologists employed by Homestake Mining Company. These surveys revealed an anticlinal structure displaced by numerous high-angle faults. Stratigraphic units involved are the Nevada Formation of Devonian age and the Vinini Formation of Ordovician age. A geochemical map of samples collected in the claim area was prepared. Geochemical analyses were made by Geochemical Systems Corp., Orange, Calif., and Rocky Mountain Geochem Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
