Such work or improvements, and character, consisted of geologic surveys and geochemical surveys of the entire area of the subject claims. The work was performed by Messrs. Robert W. Warren, Sergio Pastor, James R. Ryuba, Donald A. Hull and Joseph G. Wargo, geologists employed by Homestake Mining Company. These surveys revealed a monoclinial structure in the Devils Gate Formation and Nevada Formation, both of Devonian age. The Devonian rocks are displaced by numerous high-angle and thrust faults and overlapped by rhyolite and basalt of Tertiary age. A geochemical map showing sampling results was prepared. Geochemical analyses were made by Geochemical Systems Company, Orange, California.
